LET'S GET SOCIAL

Listen and learn

You don't have to major in finance to be smart about money. Just listen to our podcasts, MoneySmartsU and How Not to Move Back in With Your Parents, to get expert advice on money matters. Subscribe to the podcasts through iTunes or on moneysmarts.iu.edu.

Get credit for learning about credit

If you start at IU as a freshman, just before orientation you'll complete a 60-minute online exercise covering financial basics.

You can also take a series of three 1 credit hour classes on the fundamentals of personal finance. They're available online and in classrooms on most IU campuses. Find out more at moneysmarts.iu.edu/courses.

Calculate your earnings

Get an idea of how much your first paycheck will be after graduation and how you can make MoneySmart choices with it. Visit moneysmarts.iu.edu/resources and check out our interactive budget calculator.

All MoneySmarts programs and services are free of charge for IU students.

THE OFFICE OF FINANCIAL LITERACY:

MONEY SMARTS

Creating a financially smart culture one student at a time

MONEYSMARTS

THE OFFICE OF FINANCIAL LITERACY IS OUR NAME.
MONEYSMARTS IS OUR GAME.

We're here to help Indiana University students learn to be smart about finances. Your financial wellness has a big impact on your overall wellness, so it's important to start making good financial decisions early.

Because while crimson looks great on athletic gear, it looks terrible on a balance sheet.

Get money advice from someone who gets it

Whether you're having money problems right now or just want to get a head start on planning your financial future, you can get help from the MoneySmarts Team—IU students who are trained as peer financial educators. Visit moneysmarts.iu.edu/mentoring to make an appointment to meet with a team member in person or online.

MoneySmarts also has a well-being consultant who is available to talk with you about how to deal with stress about money issues. Our well-being consultant also trains our peer financial educators so they understand how students' financial situations affect their overall wellness.

Help your group get MoneySmart

You don't want to hog all the MoneySmarts, do you? The MoneySmarts Team can help you share the wealth—visit moneysmarts.iu.edu/mentoring to schedule a presentation for your group or organization.

Find a wealth of knowledge

We've got the resources you need to become MoneySmart. Visit moneysmarts.iu.edu/resources to find tools to help you make good financial decisions.

Test your MoneySmarts

Think you're MoneySmart? Find out with our interactive quizzes that test your knowledge of topics like budgeting, borrowing, and more. Get started at moneysmarts.iu.edu/test.

66%

of IU students who met with a MoneySmarts peer financial educator reported that they were less stressed after the consultation
